

Should MFN be tied to Soviet treatment of Jews?

No.

(1) Are we to make moral judgments on every nation? Wouldn't we be outraged if they did the same to us?

(2) Is ideology without practical effect worthwhile?

(3) Does withholding grain from Russia, say, "hurt" those who create the policy toward Jews? It hurts the peasants. It may discredit the leaders, it may not.

(4) Such questions are and shall remain moot. Therefore, the decision should be left to the individual. The government should not create special restrictions nor special favors to one nation over another in the realm of foreign trade.

It won't unless other countries follow the same path - of course someone can say it would be ineffective if I decided. X doesn't, so